

You may not know their names yet. Their designs aren't out on the streets yet. But if you're a fan of the show The City, you know who they are. They have the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

JANEY AND ROBERT They created the show's signature look: the elegant, sophisticated, and timeless design of Robert Couturier and Janey. They have the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

MARTYN LAWRENCE-BULLARD He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

PETER MARINO He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

CHARLOTTE MOSS She has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. She has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

HAYNES-ROBERTS They have a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. They have the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

DANIEL ROMUALDEZ He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

BILL SOFIELD He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

BUNNY WILLIAMS She has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. She has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

MICHAEL S. SMITH He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

JEFFREY BILHUBER He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

ROBERT COUTURIER He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

MARTYN LAWRENCE-BULLARD He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

PETER MARINO He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

CHARLOTTE MOSS She has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. She has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

HAYNES-ROBERTS They have a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. They have the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

DANIEL ROMUALDEZ He has a distinct style and a strong sense of direction. He has the same look and feel as the show's stars. But these designers have an undeniable passion for interior design, and they're quietly making their mark across the country. Here's how.

The Establishment

Their names are known, their products sold in stores. They may be near impossible to book, but their influences are everywhere.

JEFFREY BILHUBER

Mark Hampton protégé with classic style, whether it's English romantic or American sportif. At 330 E. 59th St., New York; 212-308-4888.

ROBERT COUTURIER

Indulgent rooms and global treasures are the charming Parisian-born's signature. At 69 Mercer St., New York; 212-463-7177.

MARTYN LAWRENCE-BULLARD

Dramatic rooms with pop flourishes and a client list that reads like an L.A. power roster. At 8101 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles; 323-655-5080.

PETER MARINO

The master behind Chanel's boutiques and Valentino's yacht. At 150 E. 58th St., New York; 212-752-5444.

CHARLOTTE MOSS

Virginia-bred; eminently feminine. At 24 E. 74th St., New York; 212-308-7088.

HAYNES-ROBERTS

This duo is all about the unconventional mix: contemporary art next to 1700s antique. At 601 W. 26th St., New York; 212-989-1901.

DANIEL ROMUALDEZ

Balanced, elegant interiors reflect his architectural training with Thierry Despont and Robert A.M. Stern. At 119 W. 23rd St., New York; 212-989-8429.

MICHAEL S. SMITH

Unapologetically traditional. See: Obama White House. At 1646 19th St., Santa Monica, California; 310-315-3018.

BILL SOFIELD

Refined with artisan details. Not afraid to turn up the luxe. Think Tom Ford boutiques. At 380 Lafayette St., New York; 212-473-1300.

BUNNY WILLIAMS

Decorating grande dame, with training at the famed Parish-Hadley and a love for gardening and antique textiles. At 306 E. 61st St., New York; 212-207-4040. —M.F.