Jonathan Savage

SAVAGE Interior Design

In 2010, Jonathan Savage of SAV-AGE Interior Design set up his eponymous firm in Nashville. Raised in Tennessee by a family that was prominent in real estate development, and a mother with a love for the fine arts, Jonathan Savage's southern heritage and upbringing is a complement to his love of design. Savage studied interior design at Nashville's own O'More College of Design. He spent a few years in New York City working under interior designer David Kleinberg. A native of Tennessee he always felt the draw of the south and always had his eye on opening up his own office here.

Whether designing homes for West Nashville families, creating a bachelor's modern apartment in Nashville's hottest high-rise or renovating a loft in the Gulch, Savage creates noteworthy homes for real people, listening to his clients and envisioning their lifestyle before translating a concept into a custom environment that's sophisticated and livable. He was a finalist in the 2016 FGI Rising Stars Home Design Category and his firm was just named Best Design Firm in Nashville by the inaugural Nashville Lifestyles Home Awards. Savage is on the board of O'More College of Design and has been a design participant in the O'More College of Design Showhouse for the last four years. Savage was recently honored to be selected as a designer for the Kips Bay Designer Show House in New York City opening May 2017.
