

Trade Notes

Continued from page 158 |

Congratulations to the winners of the 2018 Bulfinch Awards, from The New England Chapter of the Institute of Classical Architecture and Art. Now in its ninth year, the awards program recognizes work that contributes to the creation of classical and traditional architecture in New England. Those being honored this year include LeBlanc Jones Landscape Architects, Dell Mitchell Architects, Carpenter & MacNeille Architects and Carpenter & MacNeille Woodworking, and Campbell Smith Architects. To see photos of the awards gala, turn to Design Life, page 164. | For a complete list of winners and photos of their projects, visit classicist-ne.org

People who have high-end items for the home that they'd like to pass on to an appreciative buyer will be happy to hear that The Local Vault has expanded to the Boston area. The online luxury furniture and home goods consignment website, which launched in Greenwich, Connecticut, four years ago, makes it simple for both sellers and buyers with an easy-to-navigate site that offers high-quality products and hassle-free pickup and delivery. The new site invited Boston designer Craig Tevolitz of Platemark Design to be its first guest curator. Tevolitz offers his expert perspective on bringing art into the home on the site's blog. | thelocalvault.com, platemark.com

The Cape Cod-based Polhemus Savery DaSilva Architects Builders is opening a satellite office on the South Shore. The additional location makes it easier for the company to collaborate with its growing clientele around southeastern