

Houzz Call: Show Us Your Best Kitchen Innovation

Did you take kitchen functionality up a notch this year? We want to see your best solutions for the hardest-working room in the house

Mary Jo Bowling

Houzz Editorial Staff; writer, reader, serial remodeler.

-
-
-
- Email
- Embed
- Comment 30
- Like 35
- Bookmark 184
- Print

Click "Embed" to display an article on your own website or blog.

You could make a case for this statement: Where there is work to be done, there you will find innovation. Few (if any) other rooms work harder than the kitchen. We want to see your innovative solutions that have made kitchens better, smarter and more productive. Please upload your smart projects in the Comments below, and we will pick a few hardworking kitchens to profile in an in-depth way.

We are looking for kitchen perfection: A great material mix, genius ideas and a high-functioning layout. Some examples: Interior designer Kristina Crestin was asked to make a kitchen that would work whether two or 20 people were cooking. She answered the challenge by crafting a space that has separate zones that keep cooks (or would-be cooks) from colliding.

Dealing with kitchen corners is always a tricky business. Crestin solved the age-old problem with corner drawers made with angled fronts.

Hire the best pro for your next project

Find a Pro »

What are you working on?

Give this house curb appeal
Hello all - I am going to be flipping this house...
14

Exterior help!!!
Any suggestions on what should do for siding, roof...
12

News From Our Partners

- Tricks to Make Your Kitchen 10x Bigger
- Create a Laid-Back Living Room
- 14 new ways to revamp your bathroom

People who liked this story also liked

Where to Put the Laundry Room
Full Story >

Ideas for Making the Most of Your Hallway
Full Story >

A Hidden Charging Corral and Juices Fan Electronics
Full Story >

12 Ways to Add Farmhouse Touches to Your Bedroom
Full Story >

10 Elements of an Inspiring Workout Zone
Full Story >

Kitchen Studio: Kansas City

Those are the kinds of ideas we are seeking. Another example is found in this project by Kitchen Studio: Kansas City. The homeowners wanted a space that was composed of glamorous elements (mirrored tile and a demicabinet for art display) and outfitted with practical features.

The demicabinet is used to display art and fresh flowers on top, but open the doors and you'll find pullout shelves and electric outlets, so the homeowners can access their appliances without bending and lifting, and in some cases without having to take them out and set them on the counter.

CES 2015: Inching Toward Smarter Home
Full Story >

See 6 Yards Transform Losing Their Lawns
Full Story >

Room of the Day: Grow Style in a Family Dining Room
Full Story >

Houzz Tour: Lots of Love in a Lightened-Up 1909 Home
Full Story >

Kitchen of the Week: Modern Conveniences in a Timeless Look
Full Story >

Related Products >

Octave Pattern Asian Statuary With Athens
$15.99

Kalorik Black iSe Food Scale
$39.99

Waldon Leather Dining Chairs, Ivory, Set of 2
$159.99

Piazza Pattern D Emperador Blend
$15.95

Glass Mosaic Tile, 1 Square Foot
$16.75

Mother Of Pearl Tile
$17.99