

THE LUXURIOUS, CONTEMPORARY MOUNTAIN HOME YOU MUST SEE

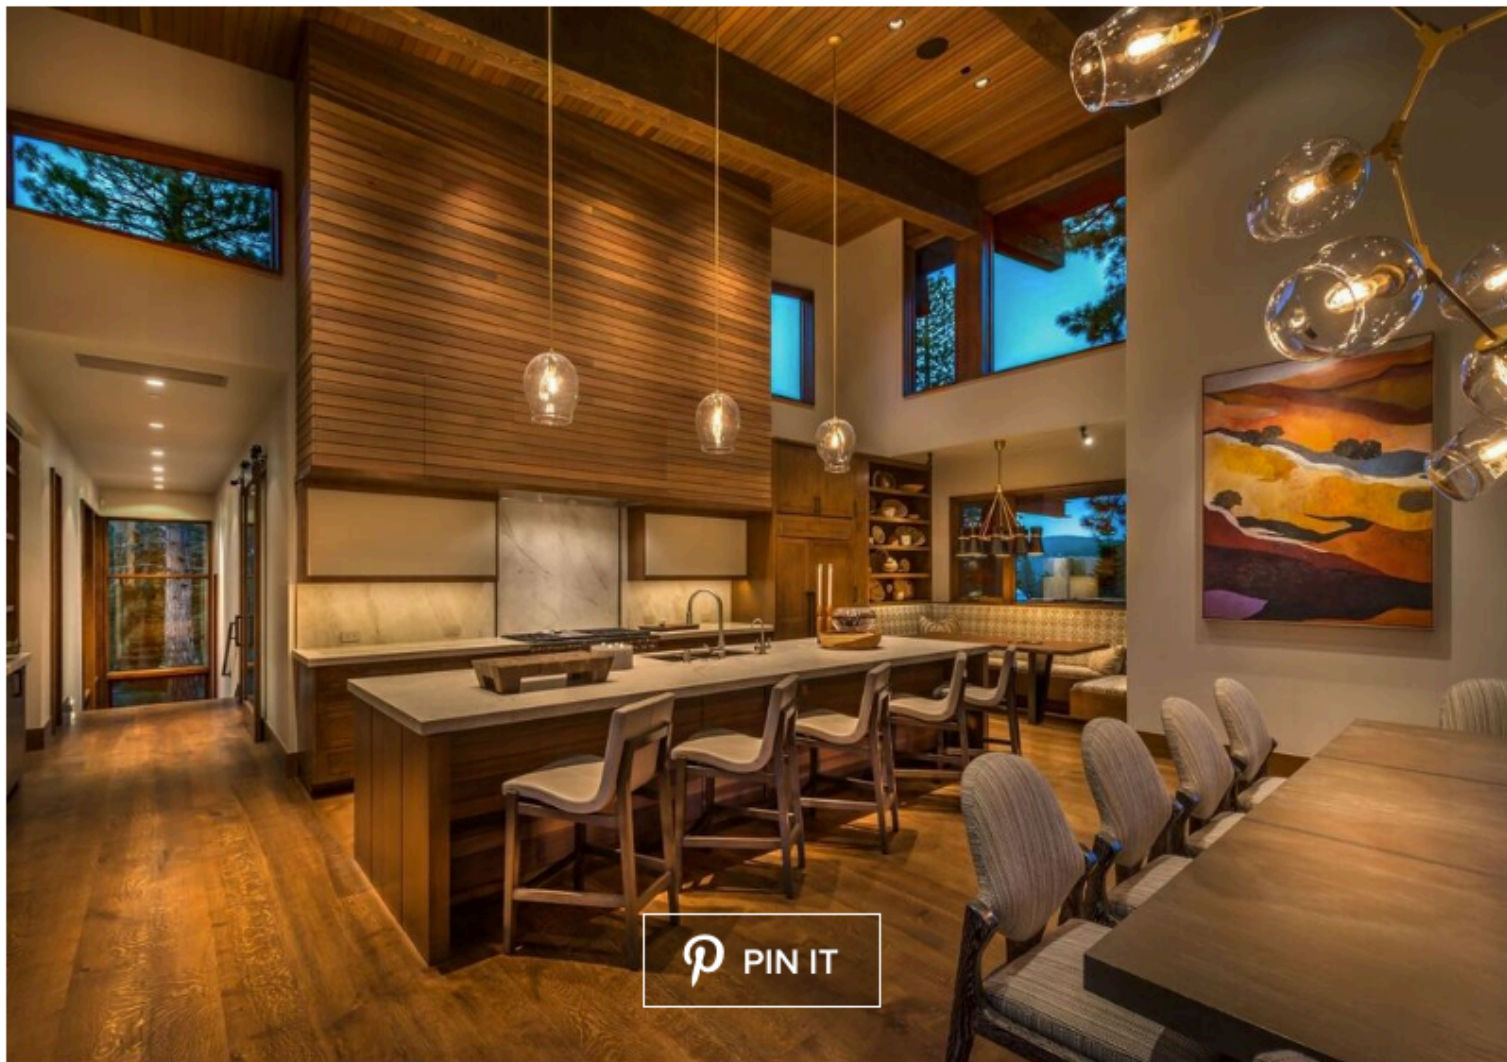

There's almost nothing we love more than combining rustic mountain locations with beautiful modern architecture and interior design. So, when we heard that Scott Corridan (of the Stellar Collection Homes) was designing a home in the exclusive enclave of Martis Camp, located in Truckee, California, we knew we had to learn more.

Designed by Clare Walton of Walton Architecture + Engineering, Inc. and built by Jim Morrison Construction, this house had the perfect bones for Scott Corridan Design to work within. Open-concept floor plans, a wall of marble, and floor-to-ceiling glass windows give everything a sleek, modern look, while rustic materials and a gorgeous mountain setting create a natural, outdoorsy feel.

All photos by Vance Fox Photography.

©VanceFox.com

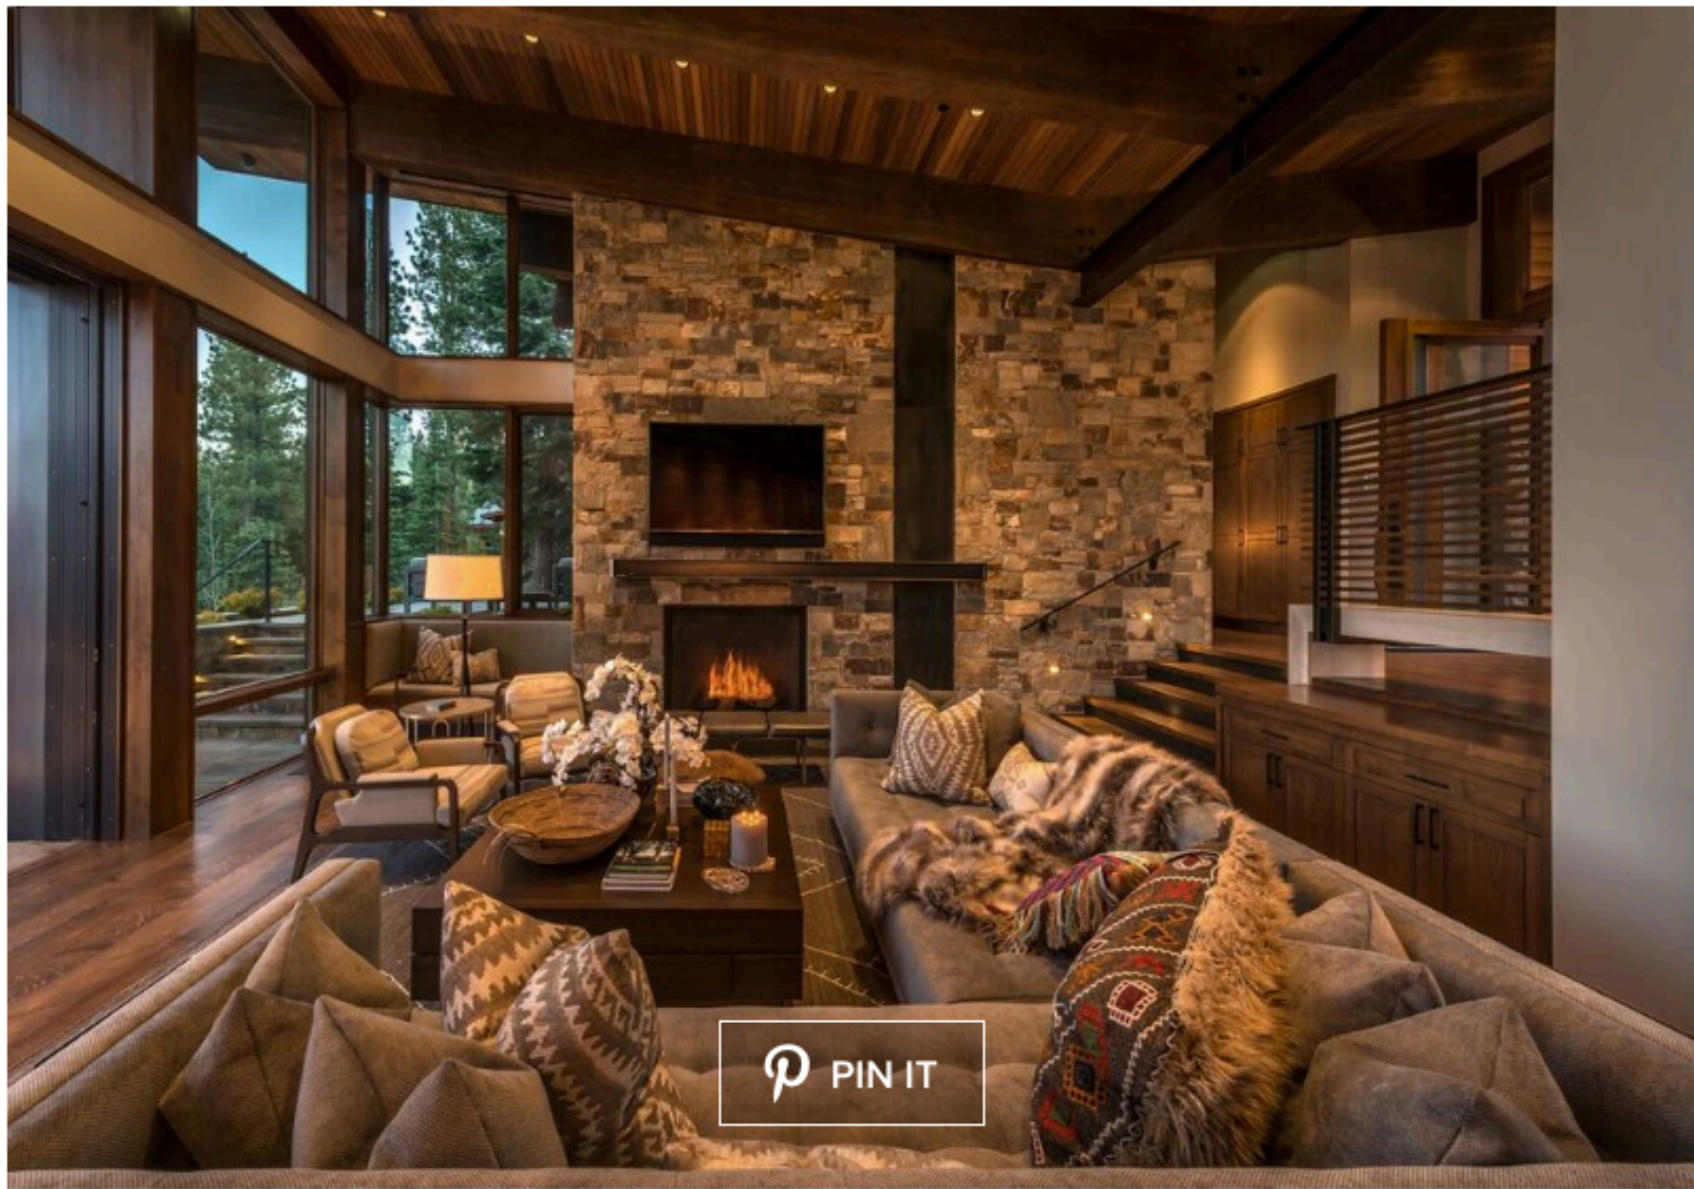

A smooth, custom-made dining table is matched with custom-made dining chairs that boast a distinctly modern silhouette. Their textured fabric work well within this mountain setting to create a look that feels both outdoorsy and sleek at the same time.

Above the table, a magnificent shimmering chandelier, custom made by Lindsey Adelman, lights up the room and offers a warm glow for dining.

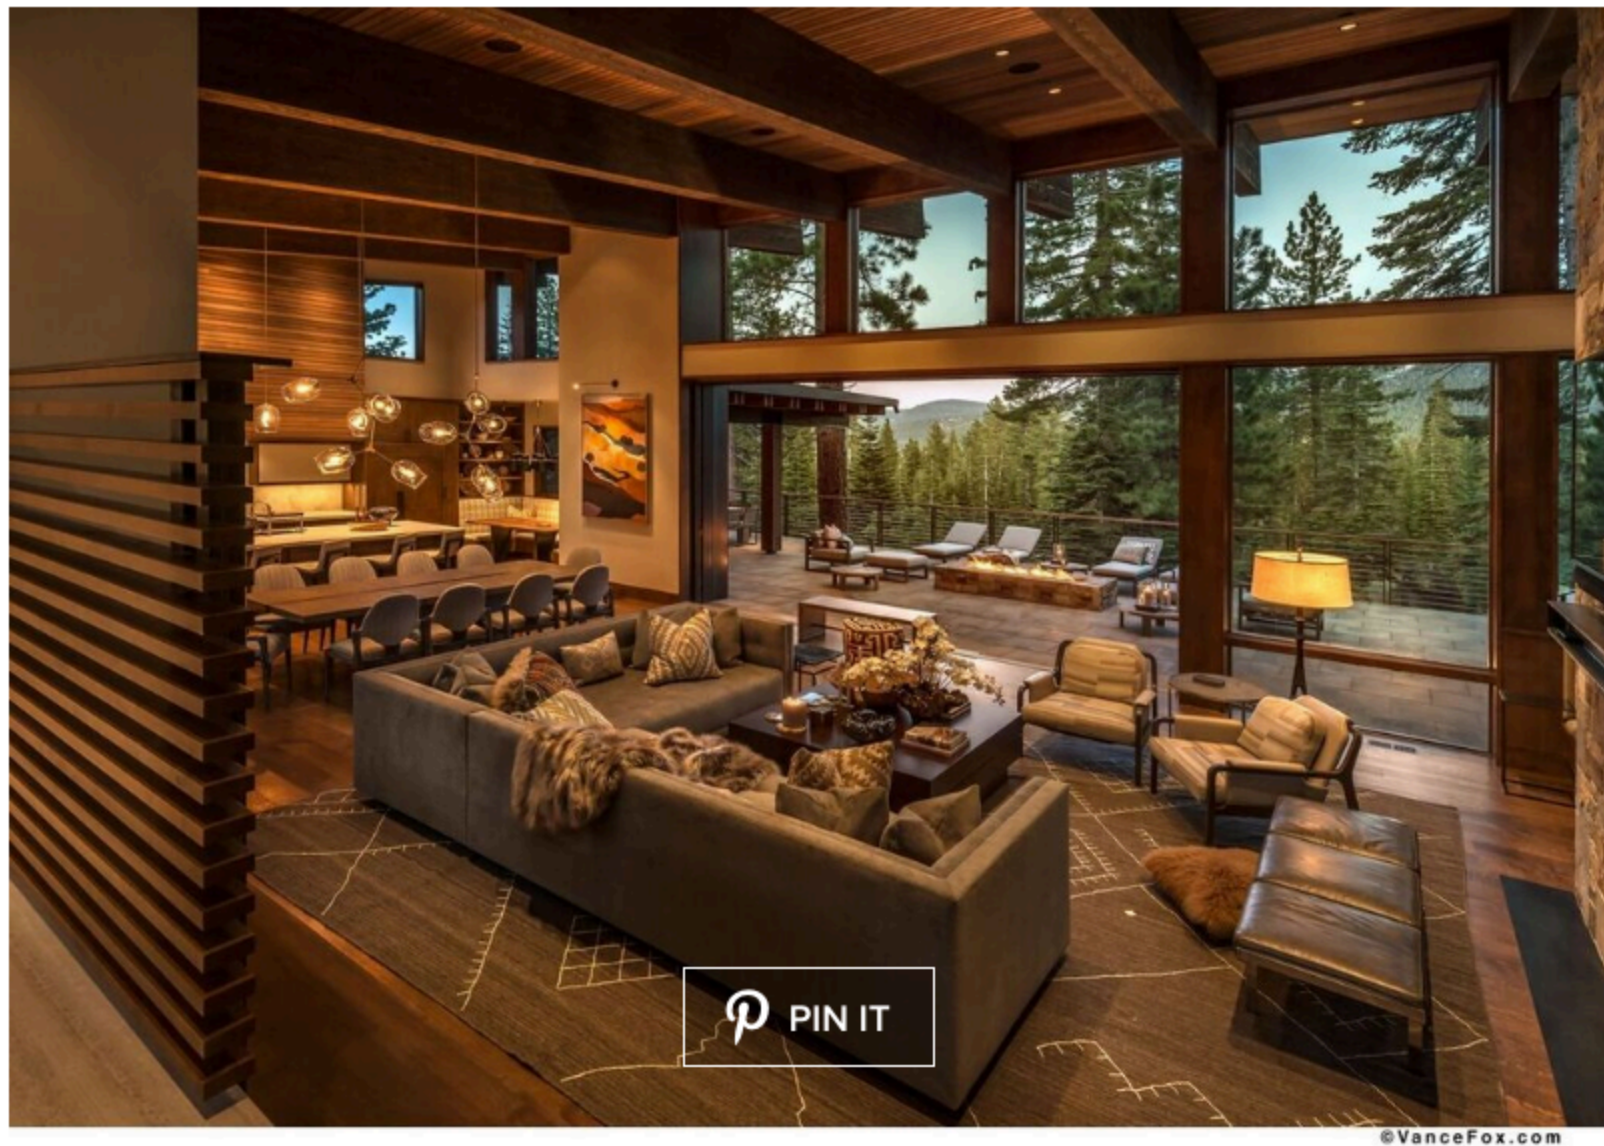

©VanceFox.com

That's not the only piece that was customized to fit this home. Occasional chairs, barstools, and a comfy sectional sofa were all made for this home by Holly Hunt.

©VanceFox.com

Draped with luxurious furs and an eclectic miss-match of pillows, everything about this open living room feels welcoming and cozy.

©VanceFox.com

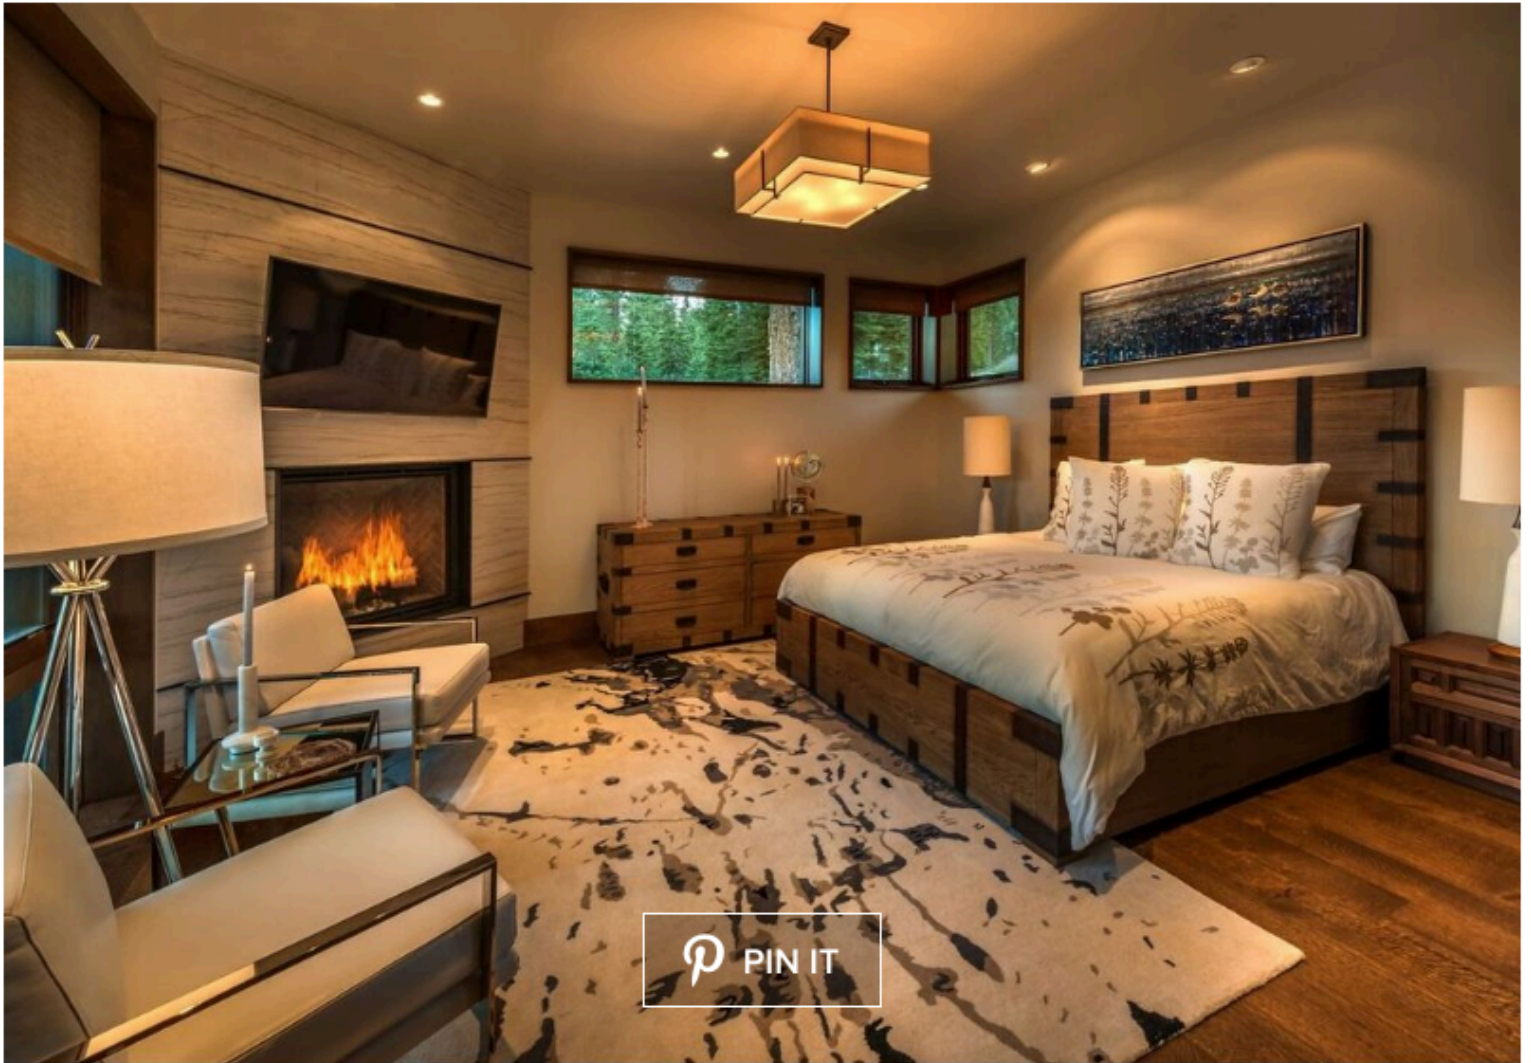

In order to have phenomenal interior design, you have to think beyond the furnishings. This space also boasts a collection of over-scaled James Shay oil paintings, which add more of the earthy, natural element to the home with a contemporary twist. You'll also find some Dot & Bo starburst décor adding sparkle to the room.

©VanceFox.com

The bedrooms combine contemporary silhouettes with rustic materials to seamlessly blur the lines between modernism and rustic cabin living.

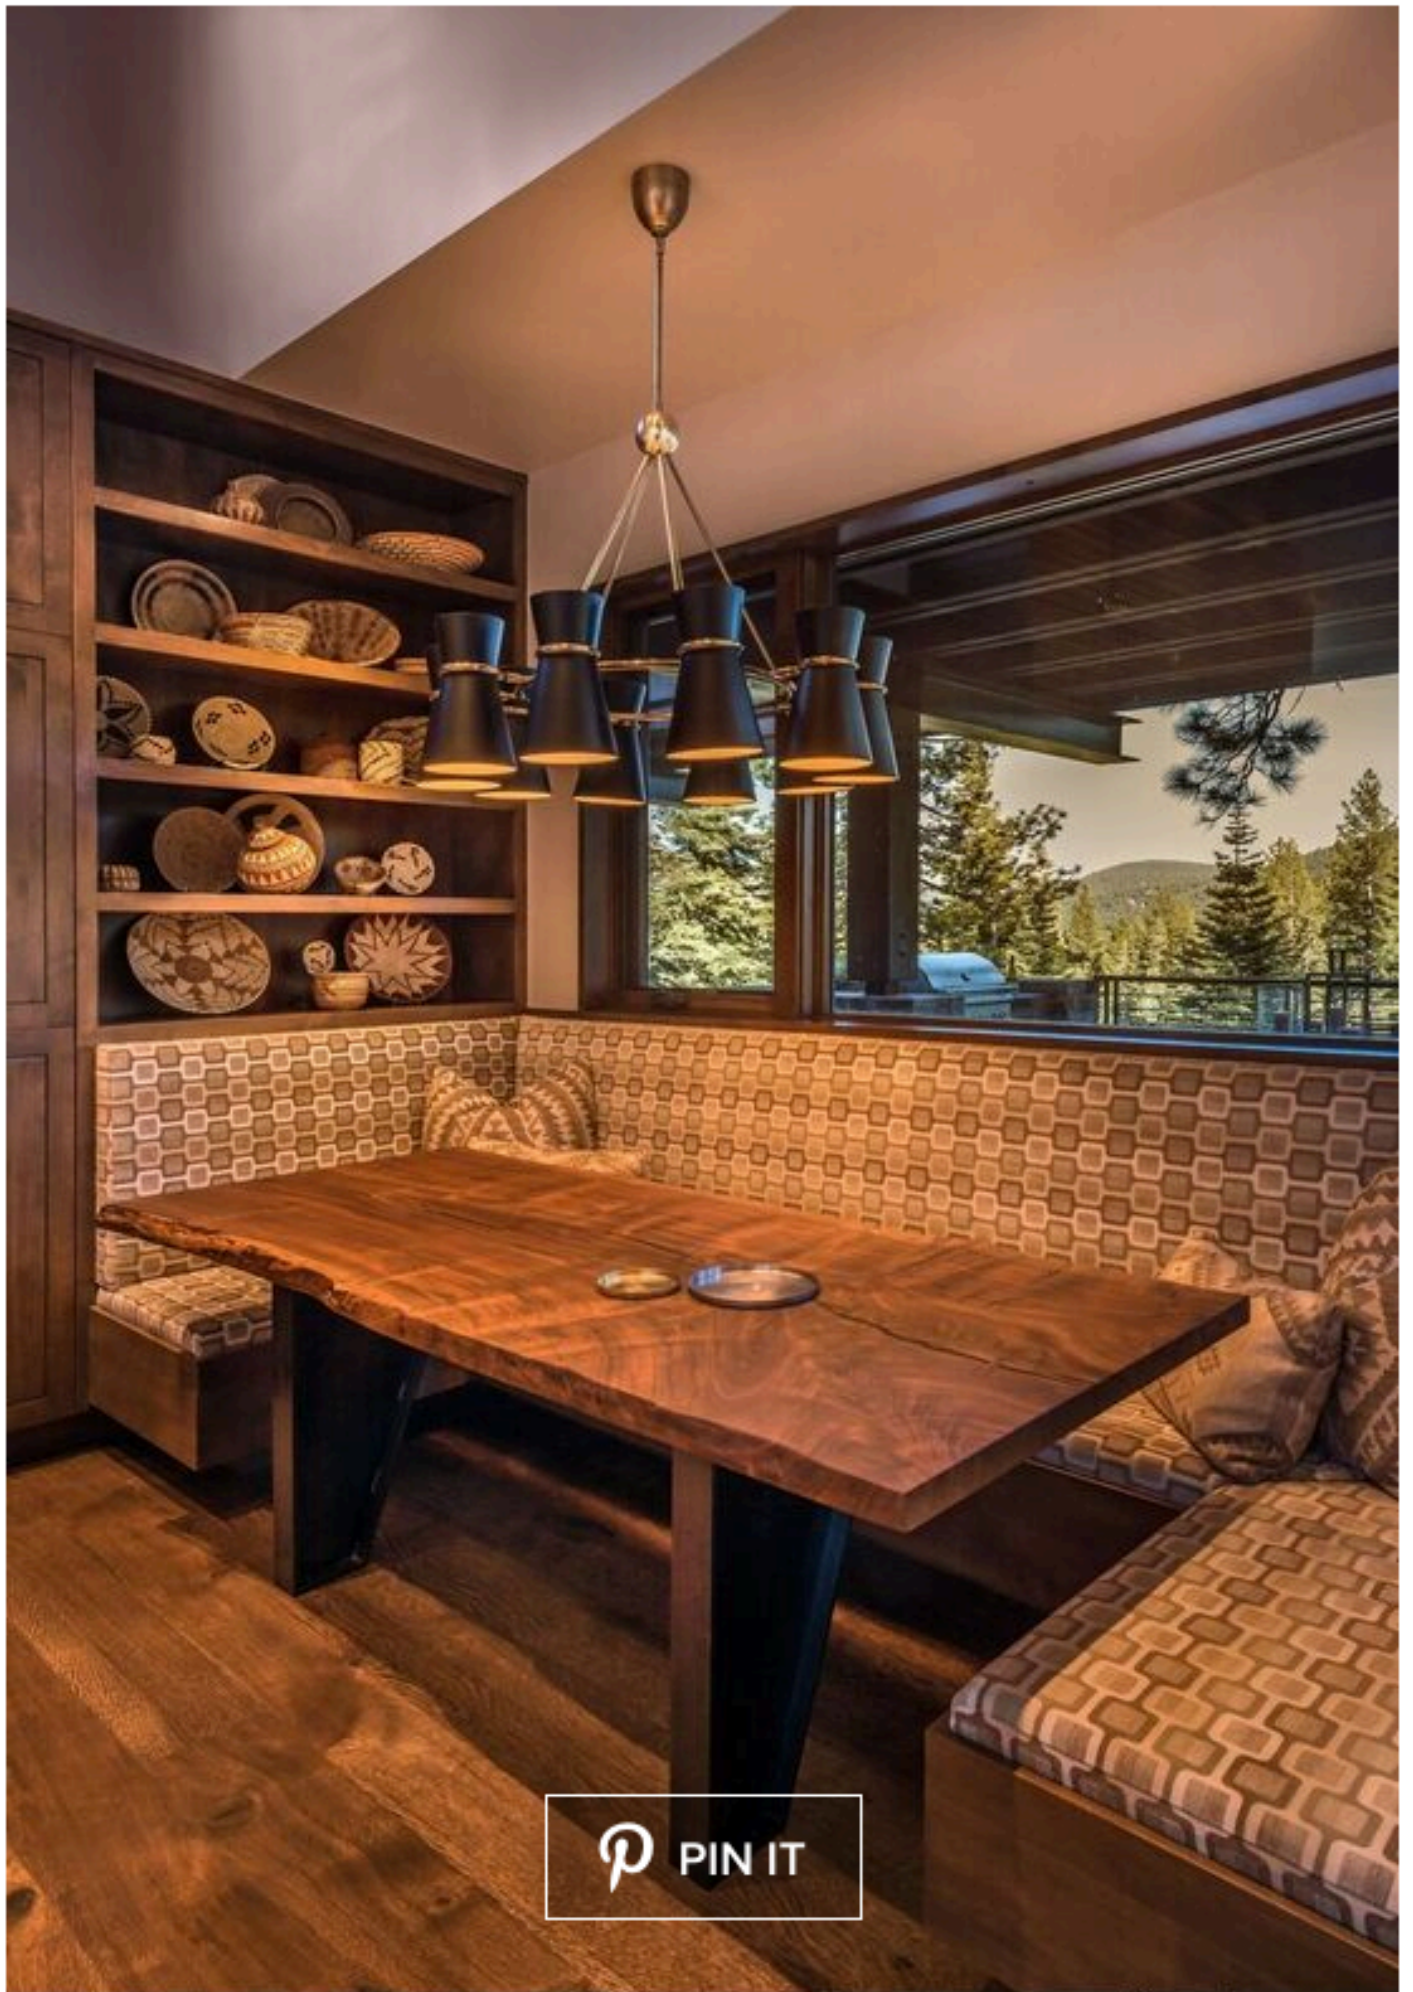

@VanceFox.com

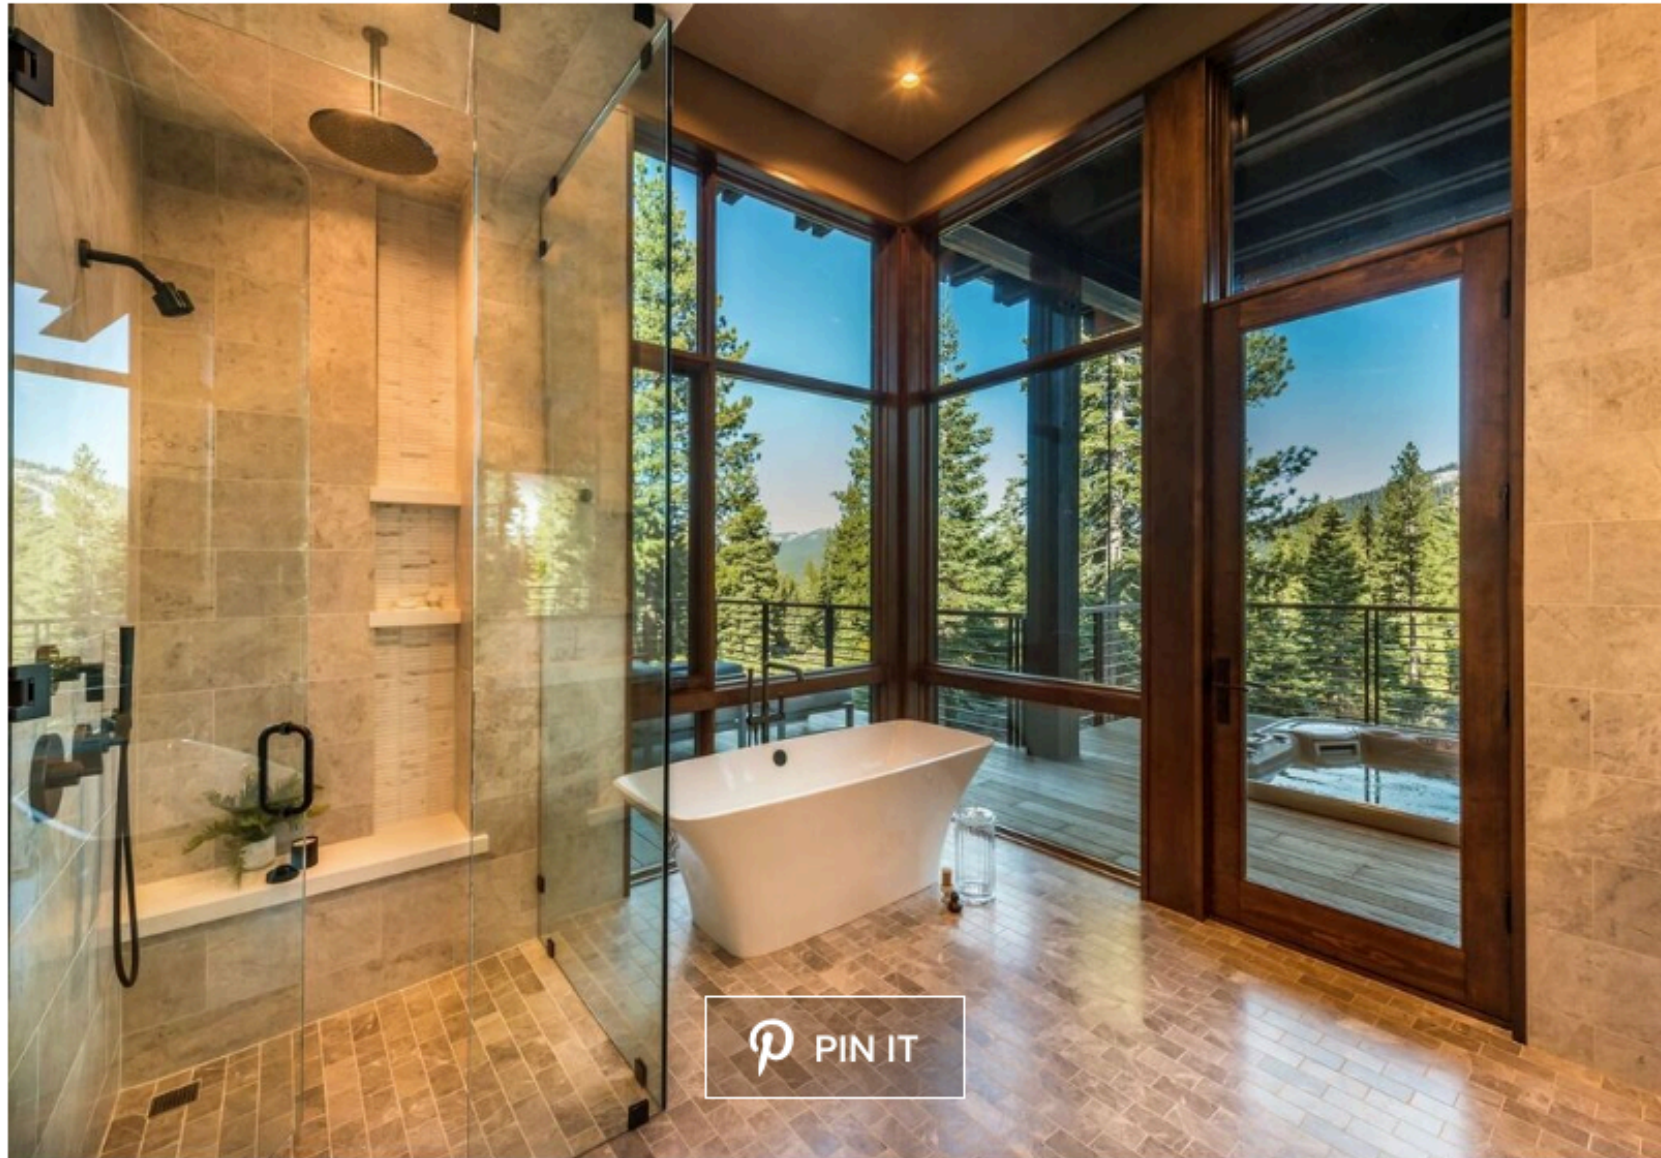

Seamless black-out and sheer ceiling recessed blinds and drapery provide you with everything you need for the ultimate retreat.

Adding a bit of character to the space, a collection rare Native American baskets are displayed on open shelving at the kitchen nook. A modern chandelier is the perfect fixture to offset the antique décor and woods-inspired furnishings.

 PIN IT

We're obsessed with the airy bathrooms of this home as well. Not only is there a wall made of marble, which is both natural and modern, but glass walls allow you to take in views of the mountains while showering in a waterfall-like setting.

 PIN IT

There's absolutely nothing we love more than a modern take on the rustic aesthetic, and the Hannah residence in Martis Camp does this perfectly. Bringing in high-end design with an outdoorsy edge, like Pendleton throws and sheepskin-inspired chairs, you've got a luxurious mountain retreat that everyone can love.

 PIN IT

Love This Look? See more of Scott Corridan's work here. Then get a similar look with these inspired Dot & Bo products.

1. Mission Sideboard 2. Matrix Chandelier 3. Rockwood Travel Blanket by Pendleton 4. Avarice Conference Chair 5. Cheviot Stool 6. Cumberland Bed 7. Autumn Brushstrokes Rug