A young couple, keen on crafting a private one-bedroom suite within their family's sprawling 18,000-square-foot penthouse, approached Sanjyt Singh, founder and chief design architect of SANJYT SYNGH, to breathe life into their vision. The suite's dark colour theme stands out as an unusual choice, a departure from typical Indian colour sensibilities. "In this particular project, the abundance of daylight gave me the confidence to go bold with black. I was keen on shattering the long-held myth that deep tones can make a space look smaller. This suite proves that a dark palette can still create a feeling of spaciousness and volume with the help of the right elements," says Singh.
