HARMONY AT HOME

Interior designer Marie Burgos talks about working hand-in-hand with her clients to create stylish and functional spaces.

Marie Burgos, principle of Marie Burgos Design, understands the importance of balance in design. Her mastery of feng shui differentiated her from other designers when she started her interior design firm in 2008.

Good design looks beautiful, but Burgos follows feng shui concepts to ensure that her designs are more than just attractive.

“Color, light, textures, shapes — there are so many different ways to create a harmonious space using feng shui without it looking ‘feng shui,’” Burgos says. “It’s really about using a tool to create a beautiful space that’s also functional.”

Burgos takes care to be aware not only of the energy of each space she designs, but the energy of her clientele. For residential clients, that means familiarizing herself with the client’s tastes, lifestyle and needs. After building a bond of understanding and trust with each client, she creates a space that reflects the lifestyle they desire.

When designing for a new commercial client, Burgos takes into account the client’s objective, marketing, clientele and business plan. She works to ensure that her design contributes to the client’s success.

“We don’t just make a space,” Burgos says. “It has to be useful.”

From Soho penthouses to Lombardy Hotel suites, Burgos has made her mark in spaces throughout New York City. Now, you can have Burgos make her mark in your home.

Marie Burgos Design recently launched a new line of furniture, sculpture, fine art photography and other accents created in collaboration with Burgos’ husband, photographer Francis Augustine. The collection is available on her website.

“Color, light, textures, shapes — there are so many different ways to create a harmonious space using feng shui without it looking ‘feng shui,’” Burgos says. “It’s really about using a tool to create a beautiful space that’s also functional.”

Burgos stayed true to her heritage in creating the new line, inspired by French craftsmanship and Caribbean flair. But ultimately, Burgos intends for her furniture and artwork to suit your needs. Whether it’s the size of a chair or the wood finish of a table, each piece is unique and custom-made to enhance your space.
