

When Elizabeth Barrett and Earl Sanders decided to leave San Francisco after nearly 30 years and move to Sacramento, they set out to find a house that allowed them two things: to use Farrow & Ball Teresa's Green (a paint color that Elizabeth had been longing to use since spotting it in a magazine years ago) and provide plenty of space for their soon-to-arrive granddaughter, Clara, to enjoy. They found what they were looking for in Curtis Park and moved in the day Clara was born.

Interior designer Kristen Fiore of Kristen Elizabeth Design worked with Elizabeth and Earl on executing their new-home wish list, which included full renovations of the kitchen and a bathroom. In the kitchen, which is awash with that dreamy green hue, Kristen elevated the cabinet height and incorporated peek-a-boo-style painted mesh screens.

But the most delightful part? A swing that's been suspended from the ceiling for Clara to play on when she's over at her grandparents' house. "It's so refreshing walking into their kitchen," says Fiore. "It has an element of fun that you don't see very often." ❧
