Jeffrey Dungan Tiny Home Visionary

Last year, as the “small space” craze gained big traction, the widely esteemed Birmingham, Alabama, architect teamed up with Tennessee-based Clayton Homes to “design by the square inch instead of the square foot.” The result: beautiful, space-maximizing house plans—including the 464-square-foot “Low Country” (right)—that complement the Southern landscape and are tailor-made for thoughtful, edited living. designer seriestinyhomes.com
