

7

Impress guests (and yourself) with linen napkins

“Everyone should have nice linens—there’s something sweeter about not being disposable. Being monogrammed, it belongs to you. You can pass them down. Cocktail size, you can afford more than one set—and you don’t have to take them as seriously. I like how people will have a linen that’s got wine stains—it means you had a good time. You should use them every day, with your good china. When else are you going to use them?”

—Lindsey Coral Harper,
interior designer

*Monogrammed linen
napkins, LEONTINE
LINENS, $45 each, visit leontinelinens.com*

Chelsea McNamara (Prop styling by Cassidy Iwersen); for details, see Shopping Guide