

DAVID PATTERSON

modern glamour

When Lisa Hintgen finally found the right spot in which to open Polished Nail Boutique in Denver's Cherry Creek North, she didn't have to search far to find the perfect designer to realize her dream of a well-designed space that conveyed a sense of quiet luxury. Her husband, interior designer David Hintgen, was right there. "We had the same vision," David says. "We knew we wanted the salon to be primarily white, modern, and comfortable for both female and male clients." A grand center chandelier sets the tone for the design, which features a variety of custom pieces found or designed by David, while the dramatic gold mirrors add a touch of baroque glamour. Simple lines, a quiet color palette—and no cell phones allowed—make Polished the place for proper pampering. 250 Fillmore Street, Unit C, Denver; polishednailboutique.net □
