All white is out

All-white everything—people are becoming more confident in color thanks to inspiration from real homes. While white elements will continue to be included within most kitchen designs (subway tile or countertops, etc.), the white, on white, on white look has seen its day.

The farmhouse look is also out

Farmhouse anything—the modern meets rustic farmhouse look is being replaced by a bolder, more elegant vibe. For those who do still want to incorporate some aspects of the “farmhouse” aesthetic, we will be seeing it done in ways that are more refined and transitional.
