MY ARCHITECTURAL VIEW

By Tim Barber, AIA, Principal Architect, LEED AP

The expat owners of this early 1930s California Spanish home love our toasty days and cool nights. My team and I expanded and transformed the home, introducing late 1930's steel windows and vintage Moroccan and 1960's lighting. The kitchen opens through a trio of steel and glass doors and down to a private courtyard where family and friends gather at a large table for dinners and around an outdoor fireplace afterwards. Our joyful collaboration included a great builder; Rick Holz, and landscape designer Patricia Benner, who introduced mature olive trees and Mediterranean plantings.

Before launching Tim Barber LTD in 1994, Tim worked in urban reclamation, historic preservation and adaptive re-use. Two decades later, with hundreds of completed projects, the firm is widely published and celebrated as a definitive interpreter of Southern California architectural vernacular in projects ranging from mixed-used developments and multi-family housing to estates and custom family homes plus lighting and furniture. In 2012, the firm earned a LEED Gold rating for a new traditional home in Sherman Oaks, CA. Tim is a founding member and former President of the Southern California Chapter of the Institute of Classical Architecture and Art.
