

OCEAN DRIVE

Designer David Scott sourced from Design Miami to help create this airy residence at The Setai.

Moroccan-inspired recycled lattice outdoor rug, Restoration Hardware ($396–$2,696). Aventura Mall, 19575 Biscayne Blvd., 305-935-1253; restorationhardware.com

These unique planters are made as a mosaic of salvaged wood, Rotsen Furniture ($2,300, set of three). 305-792-5233; rotsenfurniture.com

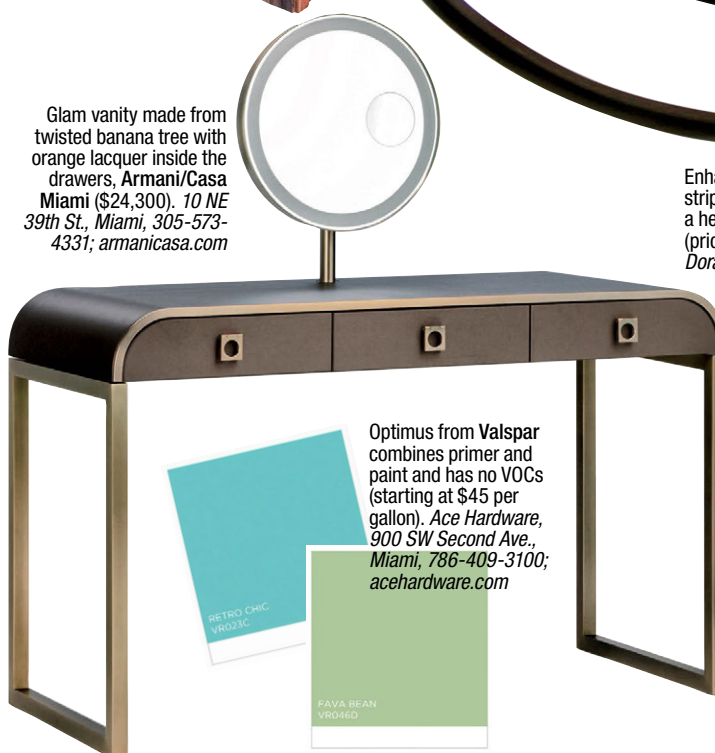

The Pant Rocker is handcrafted in Florida using eco-friendly materials, with solid hardware and a carbon steel frame, Shiner International ($1,016). homespundesign.com

ECO-SMART DESIGNS

OUTSIDE THE BOX AUTHOR AND INTERIOR DESIGNER DAVID SCOTT'S PIED-À-TERRE PROJECT AT THE SETAI BRINGS TOGETHER BEACH CHIC STYLE AND MINDFUL LIVING.
BY CHARLYNE VARKONYI SCHAUB

Eco-friendly interior offerings have increased over the past five years. Paints manufactured free of volatile organic compounds (VOCs) are often de rigueur, flooring options have advanced from the aesthetically unpleasing bamboo of years past, and recycled materials have made their way into everything from furniture to rugs. “When I think of eco-friendly, I start with what creates no additional waste in the environment,” says designer David Scott, who put together this pied-à-terre at The Setai for a jet-setting couple with additional homes in New York and the Hamptons. Nature is also a popular influence when it comes to home color palettes and textures. “People gravitate to neutrals and blues like the sky and water,” says Scott. “I find colors that are used in Miami are very clear—they don’t have a lot of gray in it—so if you have more gray in an interior, in Miami it would differentiate it more. The key to a really successful interior in Miami is a layering of textures and pattern.” OD

Glam vanity made from twisted banana tree with orange lacquer inside the drawers, Armani/Casa Miami ($24,300). 10 NE 39th St., Miami, 305-573-4331; armanicasa.com

Optimus from Valspar combines primer and paint and has no VOCs (starting at $45 per gallon). Ace Hardware, 900 SW Second Ave., Miami, 786-409-3100; acehardware.com

Enhance your flooring using natural strips of reclaimed mulberry wood in a herringbone pattern, D&B Tile (price on request). 8369 NW 36th St., Doral, 305-501-2120; dbtile.com

