Avram Rusu Studio

If houseplants aren't really your thing, the Gia Collection, the third series of handcrafted lighting from Romanian-born Andreea Avram Rusu (avramrusu.com), will still allow you to beautifully bring the outdoors in. Each piece is embellished with porcelain or metal pieces cast from live succulent plants. The collection comprises three glass pendants and three table lamps, all in ombre running from opaque to transparent.

Juliska

Home Plate

Obsessed with the ancient art of handmade Florentine papers, Juliska founders Capucine and David Gooding have now translated all of those glorious and magical swirls to tabletop. Offered as plates, platters, and trays, the Firenze Marbled Medici Collection is available in three colorways—cappuccino, green, and blue. (juliska.com)

Kelly Wearstler

Table for One

For years, the "Souffle" chair has been a favorite in designer Kelly Wearstler's existing furniture line (kellywearstler.com). Due to its popularity, Wearstler decided to riff on the chair's modernist Italian roots and has introduced an exclusive four-piece Souffle Collection that includes a sofa, an ottoman, a leather chair, and a cocktail chair, above. Delicately constructed of hand-ruched lambskin, the vintage-inspired pieces add subtle texture and personality to any room.

Emporium Home

Arkansas native Ashley Childers started Emporium Home because of her passion for interiors. "I have always loved home furnishings," she explains. "I grew up in a house with a mother who was an interior designer, so I was surrounded by creativity." She describes her vibe as "chic" and "feminine," and we agree. To add sass to your lair, snatch up one of her alluring gems—like this bone inlay "Bryn" mirror. (mecox.com)

Erinn V. Maison

L.A.-based designer Erinn Valencich launched Erinn V. Maison with fanfare in 2011. Since then, she has introduced three more collections. Her latest offering consists of sexy chairs and glamorous pieces like this chinoiserie-inspired "Russo" side table in Fire Engine lacquer gloss. Valencich says she designs "livable, elegant pieces I would want in my home." (310/247-0100)
