DESIGNER LESLIE LAMARRE and co-designer J. Michael McGinn transformed an unattractive and disproportionately small kitchen into a contemporary gourmet stunner that features conveniences like pop-up outlets and servo-drive drawers. They also added back-to-back kitchen sinks to make cleanup a breeze.

DESIGNER LESLIE KALISH and co-designer Jennifer Hobson designed a spacious-feeling, elegant kitchen within a restricted space by raising the ceiling 18 inches. This allowed for taller cabinets and classic molding, as well as gorgeous rustic wooden beams placed in a simple grid pattern overhead. The earthy atmosphere of the beams balanced the warm grey color palette of the elegant cabinetry and artisan tiles. The duo added a new stain to the hardwood floors to match the beams and tie the whole kitchen together.

DESIGNER LESLIE LAMARRE and co-designer J. Michael McGinn converted a chaotic master bathroom/closet into the contemporary, luxurious, and masculine space the clients wanted. The remodel allotted ample storage for the couple's 100 lineal feet of hanging clothes and 200 pairs of shoes.

DESIGNER GENIE NOWICKI'S goal for this master bathroom was to create a comfortable, accessible, and safe space for the whole family while incorporating the owners' passion for hand-painted Catalina tile. The design proves "accessible" doesn't have to mean "sterile" or "boring."
